

Three things we noticed about Bing's Deli

Avon by the Sea, NJ

LOCATION STRATEGY

1 Beach town deli survives on seasonal surge economics

Avon by the Sea swells from 1,800 year round residents to peak summer capacity. Bing's must generate enough margin during 12 prime weeks to cover 52 weeks of overhead.

CUSTOMER BASE

2 Serving both local regulars and one time vacationers

Year round locals expect consistency and personal recognition. Summer renters prioritize speed, convenience, and beach portability over relationship building.

COMPETITION CONTEXT

3 Limited options create captive audience in small market

Avon's 0.36 square miles restricts direct competitors within walking distance. Nearest alternatives require a car, giving Bing's geographic pricing power during peak season.
